

.Net/C# developer (M/F/X)

Do you love programming in .NET? Are you passionate in development? If so, join ACENSI as a .Net Developer! As a .Net developer, you will be part of a project team and have the chance to work for one of our clients. You will be trained on a regular basis in order to learn the best practices of the market. Moreover, you will have the opportunity to participate in challenging projects, both technical and functional.

What will you do ?

- You will analyze customer needs
- According to customer functionalities, you will write clean and scalable code using .Net language
- You will maintain various applications, design and implement new functionalities
- Automate tests will be part of your day-to-day work (unit tests, integration tests)
- You will also realize end user support, help in bug finding and resolution
- You will collaborate with operations teams to deploy and configure the software in production

What are your skills ?

- You have good knowledge of .NET / C# developments (C#, .net core, Winform, JQuery, SQL Server...)
- You know the Agile Scrum methodology
- You both have attention for details and keep the big picture in mind
- You have excellent communication skills
- You speak English and French fluently. Speaking Dutch would be an asset